

FLASHES.

Congressman Updegraff is again reported in a dying condition. All hopes of his recovery are given up.

The suit against Beecher for breach of contract, in failing to complete "The Life of Christ," has been dismissed.

The committee of the Boston Knights Templar have reported in favor of attending the triennial convocation of the Grand Encampment in San Francisco next August.

Senator Grover, of Oregon, thinks the favorite Democratic candidates for the Pacific coast are Cleveland for President and Stoneman for Vice, although Justice Field has many friends for the first position.

Colonel Cogswell, whose sudden death was announced in Washington, Monday morning, was one of the three Union officers—prisoners of war—who were held as hostages at Charleston in 1862, to prevent the destruction of rebel privateers by Federal troops.

The planters of Louisiana were in consternation at the destruction wrought by the Mississippi inundations of last Summer. Their misfortunes are not as great, however, as was expected, for it is said that the sugar and cotton crops planted immediately after the waters receded promise a greater yield than has been known for years.

Gilbert Partrick, better known as Gilpatrick, the oldest living jockey in America, who rode Lexington, Lecompte and many other famous racers in this country, and the Priores, Starke, Umpire and others in England, for Tenbroeck, is dying of pneumonia at 433 Second avenue, New York. He is 60 years old, and, with his wife, is in very straitened circumstances.

The government printing office is overrun at present by the accumulation of annual reports of the various bureau officers of the government. These amount in the aggregate to a vast pile of literature, and are enough in volume to engage any ordinary publication house many months. Work upon publications of a scientific character has been partially suspended in order to give precedence to these annuals. Work on the agricultural report and the census reports is being pushed forward.

The Virginia Chronicle is publishing what purports to be the official count of the vote in Storey county. The figures given for the Congressman in the Fourth Ward are certainly incorrect, showing 77 less than the total vote polled. Will it look over the returns and ascertain whether or not Fowling should not be given 186 instead of 109, which, if true, gives him the county by 34 majority.

Miss Naomi Angell defeated Mrs. C. W. Sullivan by 400 votes for School Superintendent of Mono county. A young lady with a name like that ought to have received every vote in the county, and probably would have done so were it not for the fact that she is rated as an old maid. This cruel remark must be charged to the San Francisco Post.

Pattison, the Democratic Governor-elect, of Pennsylvania, in reply to a question by a reporter in regard to the tariff issue in Pennsylvania, made this reply: "Well, the man who raises his hand against the industries of the State by advocating free trade had better hang a millstone about his neck and jump into the sea."

Washington Territory is a fine country. They have almost anything up there. At the old town of Tacoma they have the mumps badly, at New Tacoma and Olympia the diphtheria, and at Puyallup the scarlet fever.

John O'Leary is mentioned as a candidate for Minute Clerk of the Senate. He is a capable gentleman and is thoroughly conversant with and posted in the duties of the office.

It is time Senator Fair was hurrying on to Washington. He ought to give at least one dinner to some of the Treasury girls before the Christmas holidays.

Cleveland, having carried New York by several thousand majority, is very properly mentioned by the Democracy as their next candidate for President.

F. J. Duane, late Democratic nominee for State Controller, is a candidate for Secretary of the State Senate. He would make a competent officer.

Mr. Geo. W. Richards, at present a clerk in Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Bank, Carson, is to be Treasurer elect Tuffy's deputy.

M. Robison has leased the Carson Index newspaper office to Messrs. Chas. Harris and Geo. B. Hill.

INTERNAL REVENUE REDUCTION CONTEMPLATED.

At a Cabinet meeting on Tuesday the only discussion was relative to the contents of the annual reports, the principal topics being in regard to internal revenue. It is asserted by persons being in position to know that Commissioner Raum will recommend a large reduction in the internal revenue, and that his recommendation will be endorsed by Secretary Folger and President Arthur. During the year 1881 the receipts of the Government from internal revenue taxes amounted to $135,264,385 51, and as they have been increasing at the rate of about $11,000,000 a year, the amount for 1892 will probably be in excess of $145,000,000. These figures have induced the San Francisco Alta to draw some conclusions which will be generally concurred in by those who have given the subject something more than a cursory examination. The Alta asserts that "as is well known, the revenues of the Government are far in excess of its expenditures, and at the last session of Congress an effort was made to abolish the bulk of the internal revenue taxes, thus bringing the receipts down to a level with the expenditures, or allowing only such a margin of excess as could be disposed of by moderate payments on the public debt. This bill was defeated in the Senate by the obstinacy of some of the Democrats, who combined near the close of the session, to talk this very necessary measure to death, and succeeded. Two weeks hence another session of Congress will begin, and we hope the Republicans in both branches will be alive to the importance of taking up the bill, repealing the internal revenue taxes and pushing it through as one of the first measures of the session. The dangers of an excessive revenue are too obvious to require enlarging upon. It tends directly toward extravagance and waste, and a host of schemes are certain to show their heads in Congress, demanding enormous appropriations, which, under other circumstances, would not have been heard of. It is not desirable to tax the people so excessively for the purpose of paying off the national debt more rapidly, moderate annual payments being all that good policy seems to demand. Neither is it likely that if this excessive revenue continues to be raised it will be devoted to reduction of the debt, because, as we have before said, the temptation will be too great to squander it in schemes of doubtful utility. The best way is to repeal the internal revenue taxes, with the exception of those on whiskey and tobacco. If we do not, schemes will certainly be adopted as chemical as the one resorted to on a former occasion when the revenues were in excess of the needs of the Government—the distribution of the surplus among the States in proportion to population. Though we have latterly become accustomed to regard the internal revenue as part of the fixed income of the country, it is really a war tax levied at a time when the Government was in straits for money. Previous to 1863 there had been no internal revenue at all collected for fourteen years. The last before that had been collected in 1848, and the amount had always been inconsiderable except during the second war with England, when the same reason for levying such taxes existed as during the Rebellion. Thus, in 1848 the sum collected amounted to only $375, and it has been but a few thousand dollars annually for a long time before. The largest amount collected in any one year was in 1866, when it amounted to $309,000,000. Congress then began to reduce it by lopping off taxes on various articles, and in 1874 it had gotten down to $102,000,000. Since then it has been increasing with the growth and development of the country, until now the time has come when it can all be spared, with the exceptions previously noted. It is the intention of the Democrats to create political capital, when they are in a majority in the House next year, by lopping off superfluous taxes, and the best thing for the Republicans to do is to forestall them in this course."

AN ERRONEOUS BELIEF.

How a Mistaken Theory Nearly Cost a Well-Known Minister His Life.

[Chicago Standard.] The following remarkable statement, made by a well known Baptist clergyman, besides the unusual matter of value it contains, will be found most readable and interesting:

Messrs. Editors: I have always believed most firmly in the brotherhood of men, and that every human being is in duty bound to assist his fellow man to the fullest extent of his power. The relation, therefore, of my personal experience will, I trust, prove of benefit to many thousands in this land.

My earlier years were full of health and pleasure. After the completion of my educational studies I undertook the profession of teaching, and under the severe strain to which I was subjected I gradually became reduced so that the least exposure of excitement would bring on sick headache, biliousness and general prostration. I gave up teaching and began to prepare for the ministry, and although I studied hard my health seemed to grow no worse. Finally I commenced preaching, and then my old physical troubles returned. The slightest amount of certain kinds of food distressed me and brought on heavy dullness, dizziness and often great depression of mind. A change of room, atmosphere or clothing was almost certain to cause a cold, accompanied by most painful suffering. I attributed all this to the severe work I was obliged to do in the ministry, and so did not attempt to remove it. I next began to grow nervous and not that my feet were cold, while my left side and back frequently pained me. I felt a drowsy or sleepy sensation after eating, while a little excitement caused me to lose my appetite entirely. At times my spirits would be light and I would feel as if I might live to a good old age, when possibly in less than an hour my head would reel, my body ache and I would be overcome with a deadly sickness. After such an attack a cold sweat would break out upon me and this would be followed by complete prostration. It would be impossible to describe the suffering I endured at these times, and yet I attributed it all to overwork and not to any special trouble or disease.

It was more than a year from the time the attacks first began that I consulted a physician. He examined me and declared that my lungs were affected and that I was on the road to consumption. I derided this idea and so called upon another doctor. But he told me the same thing, as did also the other medical men whom I consulted. Indeed, they all informed me that unless I went to Colorado, Dakota or the sea coast there was little hope. However, I did not change climate, but tried to continue my work as best I could. A year ago last May and in the November and December following I had three severe attacks of what the doctors said was lung fever or pneumonia. I recovered from these by the most faithful nursing, but I felt all the time as I know now that my troubles did not originate in my lungs, but in some other organs of the body. It is true, I felt severe pains in my lungs and I expectorated a great deal. I was extremely sensitive to cold, and the least draft or change of apparel tended to bring on a cold. My breathing was often most difficult and it frequently seemed that with all my exertions I could not get enough air into my lungs to satisfy them or keep by blood pure. As I am large in stature, weighing over 200 pounds, and being in the prime of my usefulness, you can imagine how I shrunk from the inevitable fate which seemed to stare me in the face.

One Sunday evening last February, upon coming down from my pulpit, almost prostrated and feeling that possibly it would be the last time I should ever enter it again, a member of my church approached me and said: "Brother Humphrey, I know just what you need to restore you to health. I have been troubled just as you are and I am perfectly well now." I thanked him for his suggestions, but shook my head sadly, for I felt that there was little hope for me. However, after I returned home I began to reflect upon the subject, and finally sent my son to procure some of the medicine which had been so highly recommended. If faith were an element necessary to the success of a medicine, it certainly was lacking in this case, for I was really hopeless. Greatly to my surprise, however, I began to feel much better, and the following Sunday I was able to preach with comparative ease. I continued to grow better as I continued to use the medicine, for it seemed to reach my entire system. I was able to preach, sing and work without exhaustion, and to-day I am a well man, sleep soundly, eat heartily, feel no lung troubles, and I believe I owe my life and health wholly to Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, which I consider a benediction to suffering humanity.

It is only natural that since my recovery I should feel enthusiastic over the remedy which had restored me and also observe its effects upon others. As a result, I am forced to the conclusion that very much sickness which is supposed to originate in the lungs, arises wholly from disordered kidneys and liver. I believe thousands of people are suffering to-day and looking forward as I was, to a consumptive's grave, when their lungs are wholly sound and they might be restored to perfect health by the same means that I employed. Believing these truths and realizing their importance to the world, I come out thus openly, and say that I believe, under God, this remedy is a public benediction, and I would most cordially and earnestly commend it to the world as a blessing to humanity.

RAILROAD RATES.

The California Commissioners Waiting For "More Light."

Cone and Beerstecher, the only two members of the California Board of Railroad Commissioners, held a meeting in San Francisco Tuesday to discuss the proposed reduction of passenger rates to a maximum of four cents per mile. Representatives of the Sonora Valley, North Pacific Coast, San Luis Obispo, Grass Valley and Nevada, California Northern, Visalia, Vacaville and Clear Lake, and other short line roads were present and protested against the passage of the Cone resolution.

FROM MANAGER TOWNE

A paper from General Manager A. N. Towne, regarding the receipts and various reductions made in the past by the Central Pacific Railroad, was presented and read by Mr. Haymond. Mr. Towne stated that a summons and copy of the proposed resolution had been served on him October 2d. He continued: "The adjustment of rates involves the most important interests of the companies, as well as of the community. The fixing of rates as proposed will materially reduce our earnings, and right here you will permit me to say that there is nothing so essential to our welfare as revenue; at that vital point you strike, depriving the Company of its ability to earn, without making provision for a corresponding reduction in expenses. The amount between the current rate and those you propose will scarcely be felt by the individual, but it will in the aggregate materially injure the small roads to an extent which I am now unable to say."

VARIOUS REDUCTIONS.

Reductions made were referred to. Upon carrying various products to the general market based upon the tonnage of 1881 compared with 1879 there was a reduction of 18.67 per cent. and a saving to the people has been made of about $588,800 74. On the Central Pacific proportion of through freight charges for the two years 1880 and 1881 as compared with 1879, there was a reduction of $1,428,798 37, which, added to the reduction on local freight shows, in the aggregate, $2,017,599 11.

PASSENGER RATES.

Passenger rates have also been materially reduced. Many reductions were made, extending over different portions of the system, the late ones in some cases covering or overlapping territory embraced in former reductions, showing that the reduced rates have been established at different times since 1878, as follows: In 1878, extending over 800 miles of road, a reduction of 26.5 per cent; 1879, over 1,000 miles of road—reduction, 27.8 per cent; 1880 and 1881, and the first six months of the current year, extending over 1,050 miles of road, a reduction of 25.7 per cent; August and September, 1882, over 300 miles of road—reduction, 29.5 per cent.

THE C. & C. ROAD PROTESTS.

Mr. D. A. Bender appeared for the Carson & Colorado Railroad Company. While at present their road was in Nevada within the year it would come into California in North Mono and Inyo counties, but these counties as a tributary to their line would be almost useless from a passenger by their coach lines in these counties is about 4 1/2 a month. Their Nevada rates would be about 9 1/2 cents a mile, but always made it a practice to grant reductions to conventions, societies, etc. The company, unless they could receive 20 cents a ton in Nevada, 15 in California and 10 cents a mile for passengers, would probably not build the California branch. Their object in building the road was to develop the resources of the counties and increase their business. El Dorado county had increased largely in value, while Inyo had not. This was due to its connection with Esmeralda county. The Board adjourned for one day.

FRESH WATER MUSSELS.

Their Testimony Regarding the Age of Carson's Fossil Footprints.

A JOURNAL reporter recently visited the State Prison and through the kindness of Warden Burke was shown everything of interest in and around that institution, not overlooking the fossil tracks of the mammoth, buffalo, horse, wolf, sloth, heron, and perhaps, man. The reporter was also shown some of the mussels lately unearthed. According to one of the Professors of the Academy of Sciences these mussels belong to the "Family of Unionium" and afford valuable testimony regarding the geological age of the fossil footprints. At the last meeting of the Academy this professor related their geographical history and distribution, speaking of the time when the floor-bed of this ancient tertiary lake was covered with fresh water, extending from the Wahsatch range, and including much of the present location of the Colorado river and desert. He also alluded to the elevation of these vast continental areas, and their consequent drainage as well as evaporation ages ago. He analyzed and described Anodons and Physa varieties. These shells are everywhere distributed from mountain ranges toward the sea, and Bear river mussels are like those found in Washoe lake. Fragments of such shells are found on the Colorado deserts, closely allied to those in Willamette Valley. While the Sierra Nevada and Coast Range are clearly divided in California by the broad Sacramento Valley system both north and south they so join as to leave no topographical line of demarcation, and at Fort Teton, as well as in Oregon, Washington Territory and British Columbia, a geological line of division can alone be relied upon. In their formation the Rocky Mountain range is the oldest, next the Sierra Nevada, and the Coast range is the most recent; each in turn formed lines of longitudinal continental elevations. Europe, North America and Asia have all been better connected continents at some past era of time. The obvious mutations in geological elevations and depressions on wide areas of earth are exceedingly suggestive. This Professor ascribed the destructions and extermination of the hairy mammoth to the glacial age.

THE BULLION OF PARADISE.

A Large Body of Rich Ore Found in the Mine.

For a week past rumors have been afloat to the effect that a large body of ore had been found in the bullion of Paradise mine. The Silver State says that on Monday the truth of these rumors was confirmed by a letter received by A. J. Shepard from Justice Gintz, of Spring City. Mr. Gintz says a twelve foot vein of quartz has been found near the west wall of the lead, six feet of which assays from $500 to $1,000 to the ton in silver. It is the largest vein yet found at any considerable depth in the district, and the ore is as rich as any ever before found in the Paradise mines. This certainly ought to induce the Paradise Valley and other companies, who have good prospects in the district, to resume operations on their mines. The mines produced large quantities of bullion from ores found near the surface, and local companies are the only ones that are trying to develop to any great depth.

The Arcade.

Mr. Clem Lemery, the new lessee of the Arcade Hotel, is proving himself a model landlord, and is almost as popular already as Dave McFarland used to be. Aside from the courteousness and gentlemanly deportment of the host, the house itself has many attractions. The location is as good as any in town; the rooms are large, well lighted and well furnished; the table is kept supplied with all the delicacies in market, while the billiard rooms and well-stocked bar cannot be surpassed anywhere. The JOURNAL cheerfully recommends the Arcade to the public.

Copp's Guide.

The third edition of Copp's Settler's Guide, a popular exposition of our public land system, is before us. It is edited by Henry N. Copp, of Washington, D. C., the well known author. Its price is only 25 cents in paper and 75 cents in cloth: 8vo, 114 pp. The chapter on surveys is illustrated, and shows how to tell township and section corners, &c. The chapters on homesteads, pre-emptions, and timber culture contain the latest rulings and instructions. Every settler and land man should have a copy of this valuable little book.

Cold Weather in the Mountains.

The Truckee Republican says that every night last week the thermometer went down as low as zero, and once or twice several degrees below. In Truckee eight degrees below zero has been the coldest, but at Prosser Creek, Boca, and Camp 20 it has been much colder.

Ore is being steadily shipped from the Mount Potosi mine, Candelaria, to the Reno mill. The mine is looking well.

The Physicians' War.

The termination of the trial of Dr. Zimmer, of Reno, for violating the requirements of the "Act to regulate the practice of medicine," passed and approved January 28, 1875, has attracted singular attention, and now that he has been acquitted by a jury in the Justice Court, many residents are curious to ascertain the names of the physicians who have complied with the law and registered with the County Recorder. For the benefit of the JOURNAL readers the following list has been compiled from the Recorder's office, and includes the total number of doctors registered:

D. E. P. Bennis, Dec. 16, 1881—affidavit of entry of name on roll of physicians and surgeons in Mercer county, Missouri, Sept. 1, 1874.

Transit of Venus.

There are some people still ignorant of the time the transit of Venus across the solar disc takes place, notwithstanding the frequency with which it has been stated in the public prints. The interesting event, it may be again stated for the benefit of the uninformed, occurs on the 6th day of December next. The Greenwich mean times of the principal phases of the transit, as seen from the centre of the earth, are as follows: External contact at ingress, 1 hr. 56 min. 11 sec.; internal contact at ingress, 2 hrs. 17 min. 2 sec.; internal contact at egress, 7 hrs. 53 min. 51 sec.; external contact at egress, 8 hrs. 14 min. 43 sec. It will be observed, from the foregoing, that the planet will not be more than half way across the sun's disc at sunset here, which occurs on that date at 4:40 P. M. If the weather should be clear, the transit may be observed with the naked eye through smoked glass, the planet appearing like a small speck on the glowing surface of the sun.

The Lights of London.

A good audience greeted the Palmer Dramatic Company last evening. The play, a melodrama, is very interesting throughout, and especially to those who are at all familiar with the people of the better and lower class of English people. Herold Armytage and Bess Marks, his wife, by J. R. Grissmer and Miss Phoebe Davis, were so well portrayed as to stamp the twain first class actors. There was nothing strained in their rendition of the characters. Miss Fannie Young, as Mrs. Jarvis, plays the Englishwoman of the class to perfection, and in that peculiar roll surpasses any we have met for many years, but it is not intended to criticize the performance further than to remark that it gave general satisfaction, and that the whole company are entitled to great credit, not only in their rendition of the play referred to, but in the general respectability of the troupe.

San Francisco Meat Market.

MUTTON—Weathers are quotable at 4@4 1/2c and Lwes at 3 1/2@4c 1/2 b, according to quality.

LAMB—Quotable at 6@6 1/2c 1/2 b.

Sanders boasts a new sign and is proud of it. It was painted by Laycock.

Collapse of the Greenville Bank.

The Plumas National of the 18th gives the annexed account of the failure of the Greenville Bank. It says:

Quite an excitement has been raised in Greenville this week by the collapse of the Bank at that place, and sudden departure, "between two days," of E. Prowattain, one of the bankers. No good reason for the failure has yet been given, and so far nothing definite has been found out regarding the total amount of the loss to depositors and check-holders. It is possible that some $10,000 will be lost, and it now looks as though Prowattain had deliberately robbed his partner and the people who trusted them. Checks were drawn right up to the time of the suspension, and as some money was known to be on hand, an effort was made to make Prowattain disgorge, and he was placed under arrest. On Thursday night he managed to get away, and as his horse has gone it is thought he has left for parts unknown. Vigorous search has been made for him, but so far without success. Some talk of lynch law was indulged in, and for a while the excitement in Greenville was at a high pitch. The property of the Bank has been placed in the hands of an assignee, and the mystery will be unravelled in a few days. The failure is a serious matter for many who have deposited their money there, and we hear of several cases where hard-working men have lost all their earnings. By next week we hope to be able to give an intelligent account of the failure and the reasons for it.

George Small, who has been staging between Oroville and Susanville, is over here on a visit, and glad to get a smell of the sagebrush, although he likes Oroville and says it is a larger and livelier town than Reno.

The supper at the reading room tomorrow evening will continue from 5 to 8.

Therlow Weed, the veteran journalist and statesman, died yesterday.

Butler or Cleveland?

[N. Y. Tribune.]

Probably nobody will deny that the two most conspicuous statesmen in the Democratic party to-day are Benjamin F. Butler and Grover Cleveland. They emerge from the deluge of Tuesday bearing off high and about equal honors. Mr. Cleveland can show the largest popular majority ever cast for any candidate in any State of the Union. General Butler cannot show any thing like that, but he can point to the fact that Massachusetts has put her traditions and her Republicanism so far behind her as to elect him Governor. That is no less phenomenal than Mr. Cleveland's majority. What Democratic candidate or statesman in any other part of the country can show an achievement which can for a moment be compared with these triumphs? Not one. These two men, therefore, head the column of Democratic Presidential candidates with no competitors anywhere within hailing distance. Between them, the prospect now is, the Democracy must choose in 1884. They will, therefore, keep a pretty sharp eye upon each other during the next year and a half. A very large and sonorous bee is buzzing in the bonnet of each, and the tussle for the head of the ticket is likely to be hot and exciting.

A traveler from abroad is telling a very amusing story. With his wife he sought for accommodation at a hotel near Geneva and found the place so full that he and his wife had to be contented with a bed-chamber improvised out of a bath-room. During the night the husband pulled a cord attached to the wall, which he supposed to be a bell-rope. The immediate response was a terrible douche of cold water. The bed-ridden pair yelled for assistance, and were speedily the cynosure of a highly amused crowd of guests and waiters, attired in all sorts of costumes.
